DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 16 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The Applicants use the term "preferably." Description of the examples or preferences is properly set forth in the specification rather than the claims. If stated in the claims examples and preferences lead to confusion over the intended scope of a claim. Therefore, each occurrence of "preferably" should be deleted.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

Art Unit: 1713

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-5, 7-15 and 18-29 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Konig et al., U.S. Patent No. 4,501,865 (hereinafter "Konig"). Konig teaches a polymerization method comprising a hydrocarbon diluent in a stirred reactor where the polymerization medium is evaporated during polymerization. See Konig, col. 2, line 49 through col. 5, line 68. Thus, Konig anticipates claims 1-5, 7-15 and 18-29.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.

Art Unit: 1713

2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

7. Claims 6, 16-17 and 30-60 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Konig in view of Maeda et al., EP 0 713 883. Konig differs from the present invention in that the present inventions requires Lewis acid, di-olefin monomer, and temperature and pressure conditions. Maeda teaches, in analogous art, a cationic polymerization process for obtaining an isobutene polymer having a specified structure in a specific solvent system under industrially favorable conditions. Maeda also cures the deficiencies found in Konig teaching the use of a Lewis acid, di-olefin monomer, and temperature and pressure conditions. See Maeda, pages 3-6 and Examples.

8. In view of Maeda, one having an ordinary skill in the art would be motivated to modify Konig by using an Lewis acid, di-olefin monomer, and temperature and pressure conditions because both references are direct to cationic polymerization processes using di-olefins. Such modification would be obvious because one would expect that the use of polymers prepared by cationic polymerization as taught by Konig would be similarly useful and applicable to the polymerization processes taught in Konig.
